Course Enrollments Rise At Community College

A total of 16,875 course enrollments in 19 departments at Westchester Community College show an increase of 16.1 per cent over the Fall, 1970 total, according to a report released by the college office of institutional research and development.
The greatest number of course enrollments, 3,084, is in the department of social science, where students from all curricula choose electives. Second in line in the English department, courses from which are required of all students, followed by mathematics, business, and biological science.

Gateway to Nature

By Joe Semanchik, Director Rye Nature Center

A naturally happy New Year would initiate the elimination of mental, physical, and resulting mutagenic pollution, to avoid geopollution, a serious current study.
Cold, bleak, fireside- thoughtful January is dedicated at the Rye Nature Center to Recycling Nature's bounty Sunday program at 2 p.m. will relate to exchange and dissemination of reclamation information, beginning with composting. Animal handling follows at 3 p.m.

Fear of wrongdoing is being suffocated by the hug of so-called "love." Excessive love is balanced and compensated by fear, as the New Book is balanced by the Old Book. Fear of venereal disease (currently serious) and other repercussions tend toward licit love. So with pollution of our life-giving environment, only through fear of basic loss can respect be attained.

Joining many other sources, Boston College Environmental Law Center has published "Environmental Affairs," a gamut from preservation of the Adirondacks, abortion, DDT, to human health. MIT has compiled "Man's Impact on the Global Environment," or geopollution, and much more seriously "Mutagenicity of Pesticides." Calculations indicate that at least 25 per cent of our health burden, both physical and mental, is of genetic origin—personal and public pollution essentially.

Mrs. R. J. Sifton of Rye conducted the annual Christmas Bird Count at the Center, while Peter Keane and his son, Marc, of Rye Town joined the director checking the environs of Rye. Among the more spectacular were mockingbirds, bufflehead ducks, and hooded mergansers. 30 Evening grosbeaks were reported by J. Albert. Mrs.
A. Bregman counted the largest concentration of hundreds of Canada geese and other waterfowl.
Final compilation will be made by Wm. Bolton Cook of Audubon Assn. of Greenwich.

It has often been said that government is only as effective as its enlightened citizens; no longer can we ride the coattails of Nature without paying full fare for the ride. Think Conservation!

Red Cross Issues Winter Driving Safety Pointers

Driving a car in winter's stormy weather is not pleasant. For those who must drive the Red Cross suggests keeping windshield wipers, defrosters, and headlights in good vision.

The Red Cross advises taking it easy when driving on snow and ice to avoid tire spinning and skidding. Stopping slowly with a slow pumping of the brakes is also recommended.

For those planning to turn winter snow into winter sports, the Red Cross reminds that, to be safe, sledding should not be done where cars travel and under no circumstances should a sledder hitch a ride, with sled, on a moving vehicle.

Winter sportsmen are advised, when ice skating, to avoid thin or rotten ice and never to skate alone.
Winter skiing is a sport for spills as well as thrills. Injuries can be avoided on the ski slopes by those who learn to ski properly and practice good judgment. Sports can be fun, if kept safe.

First aid courses, offered free by the Westchester County Chapter, American Red Cross, teach how to minimize accidents and what to do, should they occur. A Red Cross first aid course gives a better knowledge of safe living in any season.

For further information, interested individuals should call the Safety Programs office of the Westchester Red Cross Chapter.

Named To Norton Board

Joseph B. Janson II of Rye has been named vice-president and been elected to the Board of Directors of W. W. Norton. Since 1966, he has been science editor of the College Dept. of Holt, Rinehart & Winston, Inc.

Expectant Parents Class Starting At Hospital

Registrations are now being made for a new series of discussion groups for expectant parents beginning Jan. 5, and continuing for six weeks to Feb. 9, at Barron Hall classroom, United Hospital, at 7:00 p.m. This program is sponsored jointly by the Westchester County Department of Health and United Hospital. Pre-registration would be appreciated.

Based on curriculum developed by the Nursing Division of the Health Department, the classes have the full endorsement of the Committee on Maternal and Child Health, Medical Society of the County of Westchester, Inc.

Miss Linda Curtiss, Public Health Nurse, member of the public health nursing staff of the Rye District Office, Westchester County Department of Health, will serve as class leader.

These classes are offered for the purpose of helping expectant parents prepare for the experience of child birth and for the care of the new baby.

Subjects to be discussed will include: General body changes during pregnancy; Prenatal care; labor and delivery; Post partum period and care of the new born. Demonstration of baby bath and layette on request.

Mothers who would like to participate in the exercise sessions that are part of this course, may do so by bringing a written permission from their physician.

A tour of the Maternity Suite at United Hospital will also be included.
